

My License Expires In 2022... So What Do I Need To Renew?

Effective with June 2018 renewals, every real estate licensee needs 10 hours of approved courses prior to renewing.

Continuing Education - the requirements break down as follows:

1. Sales and Broker's License (not BIC)

- 4 hours core ("A Walk Through the Law" is the only approved core course)
- 6 hours elective (any approved course or combination to total a minimum of 6 hours)

2. BIC License

- 4 hours core ("A Walk Through the Law" is the only approved core course)
- 4 hours mandatory BIC course ("BIC Duties and Responsibilities" is the only approved course to meet this requirement)
- 2 hours of any approved elective

NAR Code of Ethics Training which must be completed by 12/31/2024:

In addition to license renewal, 2018 was the year that every REALTOR® member must have completed at least 2.5 hours of credit in NAR Code of Ethics Training. This requirement can be met in several ways:

1. By taking a course titled NAR Code of Ethics 2.5 which also gives 2 hours of continuing education credit (see above renewal requirements)
2. By taking a continuing education course that has this topic embedded in the course (will state "meets 2.5" on the advertising)
3. By taking course online at nar.realtor (no continuing education credit/free course)

Be very careful when you take a course that is offered by another provider that is marketed as meeting the NAR 2.5 requirement. In order to meet this requirement, specific learning objectives must be met by the course. Just because the word "ethics" is in the title does NOT mean that the course will meet the requirement. Any outside courses can be reviewed by staff to determine whether the course will suffice, but it is ultimately up to the local association - NOT the course provider - to determine whether a particular course is acceptable.
